Course Schedule

(See appendix 1)

Requirements:

N.B. All assignments for this course are automatically subjected to an originality analysis by Turnitin. For more information, see <http://turnitin.com>

1. Each student is expected to be thoroughly prepared for and to actively participate in each class session. This is reflected in the percentage of the final mark assigned to participation. Students must be sure not only to have read the day's assigned reading and be prepared to enter into discussion on it, they must also bring their own copy of the Draper texts to all class sessions in the format they should so desire (hard or electronic copy). Students must attend and be engaged in all class sessions, in their entirety, in order to receive a passing grade for the course. Students, therefore, are strongly advised to make any arrangements to make possible this course requirement in advance of the start of the course. This requirement is not negotiable.

Note Given the intensive nature of this course, cell phones must be turned off while the class is in session. Students will have the opportunity to check messages, etc., during coffee and lunch breaks.

2. After carefully reading, 4.2 and 4.3 in “Readings in Alliance History and Thought,” the student will respond to the following questions:

- What are the principal characteristics and objectives of The Christian Alliance as reflected in its Constitution? Which of these still characterize the Alliance today? Which do not?
- What are the principal characteristics and objectives of The Evangelical Missionary Alliance as reflected in its Constitution? Which of these still characterize the Alliance today? Which do not?

Each response should be approximately one page each—one in regard to The Christian Alliance and another in regard to The Evangelical Missionary Alliance.

For this assignment, bullet points will suffice. In regard to the questions, “Which of these still characterize the Alliance today? Which do not?” students need not engage in research. Instead, they should feel free to speculate based on their own experience.

*This assignment, and only this assignment, is due on the first day of class.

Students should submit a copy to the Moodle site and, in addition, have a copy with them in class.

3. Each student will write a critical book review which integrates a discussion of any two (2) of the books from those listed under Books for Review Assignment #1 below. Each review is to identify the key theses of the book being considered, to provide an outline of its argument, and to identify what the student feels are the book’s strengths and weaknesses. Each review is to be 750 words in length.

(To clarify: The student will read two separate books. The student will, then, prepare two distinct reviews for a grand total of 1,500 words. These two reviews, however, will be submitted as a single file to the Moodle site.)

4. The student will select two (2) groups of texts from the three groups provided under the category, Book for Review Assignments #2, found below. After reading the texts, the student will write two combined reviews of the three texts. Each review which will focus on 1) the central and supporting theses of each text, 2) the points of agreement and disparity between them, and 3) the student’s own perspective on the usefulness of each. The combined-review is to be no longer than a total of 1,250 words. Therefore, concision and precision will be necessary.

(To clarify: The student will read two groups for a total of six separate books. The student will, then, prepare two distinct combined reviews for a grand total of 2,500 words. These two combined reviews, however, will be submitted as a single file to the Moodle site.)

5. The Heart of the Gospel places the theology of A. B. Simpson and the early Christian and Missionary Alliance within the spectrum of late nineteenth-century American Evangelical theology. The student will prepare a 2,500 word response to the reading of this text. The response must be composed of the following.

Executive Summary: The student will summarize the content of the assigned text in his/her own words and must avoid just indicating the topics addressed. There should be NO personal commentary or attempt to evaluate the content of the materials at this stage. The student will solely summarize what the author has said. This section should include as many of the key concepts and ideas as possible and strive to be both comprehensive and intensive. It should be stylistically correct, coherent, and clear. The abstract should be no more than 1,000 words in length.

Emerging Questions: The student will record his/her own questions that have emerged from the reading. These questions should reflect a thorough, profound, and thoughtful interaction with the text. This section should include not only the questions but an identification of the reason(s) why the student is asking. Grading in this section will consider both the quality of the questions and the apparent depth of interaction with the text. This section should be no more than 750 words in length.

Contemporary Challenges: This text asserts that what is often identified contemporarily as “Evangelicalism” is not simply a continuation of the theology and practice of late nineteenth-century Evangelicalism. In no more than 750 words, the student will 1) identify contemporary Evangelical doctrines and practices which are at odds with those of the late nineteenth century and 2) offer suggestions for how a critical reappropriation of late nineteenth-century theology or practice could help to revitalize contemporary Evangelical life.

6. The catchphrase “Christ-Centred, Spirit-Empowered, Mission-Focussed” has recently gained significant traction in The Christian and Missionary Alliance in Canada and is being used as a measure of denominational ethos and practice. Based on the course’s readings, lectures, and discussions, and in light of classic Alliance theology and practice, each student will provide a concise, yet comprehensive, exposition on what each of these phrases mean (or should mean) in the contemporary context. This assignment is not to exceed 750 words in length.

Due Date:

All assignments, unless noted otherwise, must be submitted to the course’s Moodle page no later than 8:30 a.m. on February 18, 2020.

Attendance:

(See Assignment #1 above.)

We are committed to fostering personal integrity and will not overlook breaches of integrity such as plagiarism and cheating. Academic dishonesty is taken seriously at Ambrose University as it undermines our academic standards and affects the integrity of each member of our learning community. Any attempt to obtain credit for academic work through fraudulent, deceptive, or dishonest means is academic dishonesty. Plagiarism involves presenting someone else's ideas, words, or work as one's own. Plagiarism is fraud and theft, but plagiarism can also occur by accident when a student fails or forgets to acknowledge to another person's ideas or words. Plagiarism and cheating can result in a failing grade for an assignment, for the course, or immediate dismissal from the university. Students are expected to be familiar with the policies in the current Academic Calendar that deal with plagiarism, cheating, and the penalties and procedures for dealing with these matters. All cases of academic dishonesty are reported to the Academic Dean and become part of the student's permanent record.
