Course Description

A survey of the origins of The Christian and Missionary Alliance movement in its social/cultural context. The continuities and changes are then traced historically as The Alliance developed to the present. In this, an evaluation of Alliance “distinctives” will form a central theme.

Explanation

The task of this course is to orient people training for vocational ministry within the Alliance and interested lay people to the spiritual, theological, and pastoral resources of the denominational heritage. To bring life to denominational history the course employs a concept of "living tradition" as the mode of both appropriating and critiquing this heritage.

When understood as a living tradition, Alliance history and thought is meant to be more than something old and irrelevant to be read about in a textbook. The course is to inform an Alliance sense of identity, to ground teaching and worship, and to find its way into lived commitments. Alliance identity is shaped by a tradition, expressed by Albert B. Simpson as the Fourfold Gospel, which has continually witnessed to the fact that Christ's work has present as well as future implications. It calls adherents to and empowers them for holiness, it affirms God's interest in the physical as well as the spiritual, and it points forward to hope in the coming of Christ's Kingdom.

Course Objectives

1. Students will be able to explain selected historical themes affecting the Christian and Missionary Alliance from the late nineteenth century to the present.
2. Students will have an interpretive grid for analysing the history of the Christian and Missionary Alliance through its central continuities and changes.
3. Students will be able to identify the Alliance distinctives which have shaped its historical and doctrinal experience. Particular attention will be paid to sanctification, healing, eschatology, and missions.
4. Students will have a broadened understanding of the work of the Christian and Missionary Alliance in Canada and throughout the world.

Course Requirements

1. Each student is expected to be prepared for and to participate in each class session. This is reflected in the proportion of the final mark assigned to participation. Students will be asked to present an informal summary to the class of one of the required readings.
2. A list of completed required reading will be submitted to the instructor.
3. Each student will write a critical book review which integrates a discussion of the four books listed above. Your review is to evaluate the degree to which 1) each book makes a contribution to Alliance thought and 2) together constitute a recognizable theological tradition. Your analysis will be significantly strengthened by reference to materials discussed in class and referenced in the bibliography which accompanies this syllabus. The review is to be no longer than 10 pages (approx. 2500 words).
4. Lindsay Reynolds outlines the history of the Christian and Missionary Alliance in the twentieth century in Rebirth. Use the interpretive grid for Alliance history presented on the final day of class to critically analyse Reynold's book. Assess the degree to which the tensions identified in the lecture are supported by the history of the Alliance in Canada and assess the degree to which this interpretative grid was helpful in identifying central themes in the narrative. This review should be no longer than 5 pages (approx. 1250 words).
5. The research papers are meant to explore new areas of Alliance history. It is suggested that this paper focus on a local church history, either of the church you now attend or one you have been associated with in the past. Papers will be approximately 15 pages (approx. 4,000 words) and will involve primary research.
6. As an alternative to the local history paper, students may participate in the Alliance Oral History Project. This project seeks to collect, preserve and make accessible to researchers oral history interviews on topics relating to the Alliance in Canada. Students electing this assignment will conduct at least six hours of interview with at least two participants and submit a voice recording and transcript of each and a three to five page reflection paper. There will be three instructional seminars on oral history during the lunch hours Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday that are required for participation in the Alliance Oral History Project.
